Oxbow says: The six essays featured in this study originated as papers given at the 36th International Congress of Medieval Studies at Kalamazoo. The contributors survey the ornate altars produced from the early 8th to 13th century in Europe, with specific examples taken from Italy, Germany and Scandinavia. Whilst some of the essays explore the interaction between the altar and its decorated setting, others examine the relationship between the altar and liturgy or eucharistic ritual, the pictorial narrative of the altar frontals (including Christ and scenes from his life, saints, Biblical figures and narrative cycles), the human body and materiality.

Joseph Johnson:

As a scholar exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library or even make a summary for some publication, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their leisure activity. They just do what the instructor want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring along with can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this era, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So, this Decorating the Lord's Table. On the Dynamics Between Image and Altar in the Middle Ages can make you truly feel more interested to read.
