This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: ...The details of no particular place will be given here, but special attention is called to the upper part of Chart No. 5. It would seem that cut-offs are incipient in many places, yet not a single one was made during the flood. Two were found which had been made within the past few years, but two other places were found in which the river, having made a cut-off several years before, had reverted back to its old meander again. One of these latter places is just west of Elnora, and the other is about four miles above Edwardsport. A fairly accurate estimate of the aggregate number of acres lost by bank cutting between these two counties during the year is seventy-five acres. Hundreds of acres are lying in idle sandy and swampy tracts within the inside bends of the numerous meanders. No fair estimate of less than twelve hundred acres could be made, entirely due to bank cutting, which has accumulated from past years. This land cannot be reclaimed short of straightening the channel, nor can the continued bank-cutting be stopped or mitigated with anything less. As yet this paper cannot do more than call attention to this phase of loss to society in general; but as has been intimated before, a loss of something like $300,000 in ten years between these two counties must be considered in the near future. Of that part of the East Fork traversed, the only bank-cutting amounting to any considerable damage was found in Jackson County. (See Chart No. 7.) Even here it was not severe.. From Brownstown to Sparksville, the only part of the East Fork in the extensive valley coming within the notice of the writers, there were not over twelve acres lost by bank-cutting. The channel from above Brownstown to near Medora is relatively straight except for two rather large meanders. Co...
